The SHIP (Self Harm Intervention) - The service is open to young people aged over 11 years old and adults, and offers short-term counselling in relation to self-harm. SHIP can also direct individuals to services to support them with other problems they may be experiencing. Self-harm can have a huge impact on other family members whose own mental health may begin to suffer without support.

Self-harming may occur in any family situation and there should be no fear or stigma around seeking help with this issue. SHIP can also provide a short period of education and support to carers to help them better understand and cope with this issue and ensure they know how to obtain help in a crisis situation.

The following phone lines are for families and carers only. People who self-harm must be referred by a health professional:
